

MUSIC FESTIVAL OF DISTRICT H. S. PROVES WONDERFUL

Band, Choruses and Orchestras Do Work "Almost Unbelievable"

1,700 HEAR CONCERT AT LIB

"I assure you it is well worth your time," Principal L. O. Bright of Antioch said when inviting local people to attend the second annual music festival held at Libertyville Monday night, where about 75 Antioch students joined with 400 from other high schools of the conference district to produce one of the most inspiring programs ever heard in this locality.

How well the local school principal's prophecy was fulfilled is told in the Cook County Herald. Says the Herald:

"The work these young people have done today is almost unbelievable," was said of the Music Festival of the Northwest High School conference by Raymond F. Dvorak, guest conductor from the University of Illinois at the close of the performance Monday night in the huge gymnasium of the Libertyville high school.

A vast assemblage of picked musicians from Antioch, Arlington Heights, Barrington, Bensenville, Elmhurst, Libertyville, Leyden, Palatine, Warren and Wauconda filed in and took their places in the east third of the floor of the great building, and as they stood together, a chorus of about 275, a band of 150, and orchestra of like number, it was an imposing sight.

Sensational Band

As they were seated, Principal H. E. Underbrink of Libertyville high school welcomed the audience of about 1700 persons, introducing Mr. Dvorak, leader of the University of Illinois band, who immediately was at his place, the great band of 150 pieces responding instantly with the popular and thrilling strains of Sousa's march, "El Capitan." The audience was electrified.

Composer Directs

The final number of the band, as a surprise, was personally directed by the composer, Mr. Mader, of the "Chicago World's Fair Centennial 1933" march. This band had had but two

LAKE VILLA, AVON, SHOW GROWTH; ELA POP. DECREASES

Supervisor of Census Gives Population Figures for Lake County

The population of Lake Villa township as shown by a preliminary count of the returns of the Fifteenth Census, taken as of April 1, 1930, is 1,384, as compared with 1,031 on January 1, 1920. The village of Lake Villa has a population of 435 as compared to 407 ten years ago. There were 34 farms enumerated in the township.

Avon township also registered a growth, the 1930 population being 2,103, according to the census taker, as compared with 1,534 in 1920. The village of Hainesville in ten years dropped from 84 to 31. Grayslake increased from 730 in 1920 to 1,119 in 1930. Round Lake jumped from 251 to 330, according to the recent census just completed.

Elmhurst

Elmhurst lost 33 residents in the ten year period, the census reveals, that township dropping from 2,336 in 1920 to 1,303 in 1930, but the village of Lake Zurich in this township showed a slight gain, 305 as compared with 316 in 1920. Elmhurst has 173 farms enumerated.

Library to Close for Four Weeks

On account of the absence of the librarian, the Antioch public library will be closed for four weeks beginning next week.

Those having books out are asked to bring them in on Friday if possible. If not they may keep them for the month—there will be no fines.

Mary Stanley, Librarian.

Planning for a 105-Story Tower

A 105-story building in Wall street, New York, is occupying the attentions of Louis Adler, (left), president of the Louis Adler Realty corporation, who is shown going over blueprints with the general manager, Julius Fishman. Adler, who has just purchased an entire block in the world-famous street of finance, is believed to be the only individual ever to make so large a purchase in this thoroughfare.

ANTIOCH LAUNDRY TO OPEN IN ABOUT FOUR WEEKS, SO IT IS SAID

E. A. Grutzmacher, Manager, Arrives to Supervise Preliminaries

TO BECOME ANTIOCH CITIZEN

With the arrival last week of E. A. Grutzmacher, manager of the new Chain O'Lakes Laundry and Dry Cleaning company, to take active supervision of the installation of the $40,000 worth of machinery into the new plant, the realization of this project is promised within a short time.

Mr. Grutzmacher is a laundryman of 20 years experience, having successfully started two large laundries in Chicago within that period, both of which he sold for many times the original investment. He comes to the new laundry, therefore, with a thorough knowledge of his task and with a background of successful experience. Not only so, but he is himself a large investor in the Antioch enterprise.

Expected to Make Antioch Home. Mr. Grutzmacher has recently moved to Park Ridge, after years of residence in Chicago, but he told a News reporter Thursday morning that he expected to sell his Park Ridge home soon and purchase a home in Antioch. As he said it in his own words, "I want to identify myself completely with Antioch. I do not think it would be fair to come here to make a big living and reside elsewhere."

With the opening of the laundry for work tentatively set to occur within four weeks, Mr. Grutzmacher's first task will be the supervision of the installation of machinery, three carloads of which arrived today. The manufacturers have promised to co-operate with Mr. Grutzmacher, George Ort, financial engineer, and Clarence D. Polk, promoter and attorney-in-fact, to enable the opening to occur shortly after June 1st. Mr. Grutzmacher will also begin at once the formation of an organization and the arranging of office facilities.

While the opening of an institution of this size demands attention to many details, Mr. Grutzmacher emphasized his belief that it would be accomplished within three or four weeks.

Shortly after the laundry is open-

FIREMEN PRACTICE; CHIEF IS PLEASED WITH FAST WORK

Leave Fire Station and Make Hose Connection in 90 Seconds

Ninety seconds do not mean much in the lives of most people, but when there is a fire this short space of time is very valuable if taken advantage of. It took Company No. 1 of the local fire department just one minute and thirty seconds to make a hose connection on a Main street hydrant here Monday evening. Chief James Stearns timed the operation from the standing start at the station until all was set to go with the water.

"Ninety seconds," announced Stearns, and the chief's smile of satisfaction meant a lot to the boys who always try their level best.

Practice Runs Monday. It has been the experience of most country fire departments that speed in getting to the scene of a fire is of utmost importance if efficient work is to be done. Records of the local department reveal the fact that most fires are out of the village where there are neither hydrants nor water, and unless practice runs are made the boys forget their tricks with the hose in making hydrant connections and hose connections.

Practice runs will take place on Monday evening through the summer months when the weather permits, so there is no cause for alarm when the different companies are seen out doing their stuff.

Waukegan Times, New Daily, Makes Bow to Public

The long-looked-for Waukegan new daily newspaper made its initial appearance Monday afternoon. It's the Waukegan Daily Times, which broke forth into the Lake county journalistic fold with a 32-page edition, crammed with late news, well patronized by advertisers, and full of size from the first page to the last. The News is pleased to welcome the Times to the editorial desk.

The Times is the product of the Waukegan Publishing Co., Inc. Geo. Morris, M. I. Whitmore and George F. Stiles are the publishers, Wayne T. Stupis is managing editor and Lloyd T. McNerney, city editor. The new publication is independent in politics.

School Kiddies Will Have Circus Parade

Pupils of Mrs. Lux's room, the first and second grades, will have a circus parade tomorrow (Friday) at two o'clock. The public has not been enlightened as to what this is all about—just the simple announcement, "circus parade," so everybody had better be on deck tomorrow at two o'clock.

ad a visiting week will be publicly announced and everyone welcomed and shown how a modern laundry handles the work entrusted to it. In the meantime the people of Antioch are awaiting with eagerness the completion of this long looked for enterprise.

FACULTY OF ANTIOCH HIGH SCHOOL CHOSEN FOR 1930-1931 TERM

Rumors of Resignation of Mr. Bright is Untrue

MISS RICE TO LIBERTYVILLE

L. O. Bright is to remain as head of the Antioch Township high school during the next school year and there is to be no wholesale resignation of teachers, following his departure or consequent upon his resignation, he announced Wednesday morning to The News. This statement effectually answers rumors that have been afloat that he and several other teachers were planning to quit the school at the end of the present term.

In elaboration of his denial of this rumor Mr. Bright gave out the following list of present teachers who have contracted to continue in the faculty next year: Miss Alice Smith, Mrs. Ruby Richey, Mrs. Gladys Dardenne, Miss Lillian Schroeder, C. L. Kuttel, F. H. Hackett, and L. O. Bright. A tentative agreement has also been reached with O. G. Reed.

There will be a few changes in next year's faculty, however. Miss Hedvig Rice goes to the Libertyville schools as teacher of vocal music. This is a distinct advancement for Miss Rice, as her position there carries with it a salary of $2,400 per year, while Mr. Bright says is the largest salary he knows of received by a woman teacher in this section of the state.

To succeed Miss Rice the services of E. V. Jeffers of Illinois Wesleyan have been announced. He will have charge of vocal and instrumental music next year.

Miss Cornelia Roberts, now teaching in Lake Zurich, has been employed to teach history and English. She will also act as girls' advisor.

PRINCIPAL BRIGHT TO ADDRESS GRAMMER SCHOOL GRADUATES

Legion Men Will Present Awards at Promotional Exercises

Principal L. O. Bright of the Antioch Township high school, will address the eighth grade graduates at the promotional exercises to be held Monday evening at eight o'clock at the high school auditorium. Mr. Bright will have for his subject, "The Transition from the Grades to the High School."

Legion Men to Make Awards. Members of the local post of the American Legion, who have sponsored a contest for school students during the year, will be present to make the citizenship awards.

A class of 26 finishes the eighth grade this year: Clifford F. Abele, Vernon R. Abele, Donald W. Andersen, Clayton W. Bartlett, Delores Gladys Blackman, Elizabeth Helen Corrin, Marjorie Ann Crowley, Thelma Louise Cunningham, Arthur William Griffin, Carl Herbert Hattendorf, Margetta L. Hawkins, Helen M. Hostetter, Bernice Jonson, Lillian Laurson, Marion Lykke, Adole Carolino Miller, Lester J. Osmond, Bertha Overton, Jack Panowski, Gloria Plerce, Walter John Sheen, Wray Junior Sheeh, Walter Simonsen, Marvin E. Van Patten, Jean Van Patton, George William Wetzel.

CARRIER PIGEONS REST NEAR ANTIOCH

Two carrier pigeons were reported to have reached here early this week. One was captured at the A. C. Hahn place north of Antioch. This pigeon carried an aluminum leg band upon which were the letters and numerals: "A. U.—23. ACE 1147." Under a rubber band was the number 831.

A second pigeon sought food and shelter at the Oetting farm near Trevor a few days ago. It was not learned what inscription was carried by the second bird.

Miniature Golf Course Is A Putter's Delight

Another amusement, enterprise, unique so far as this immediate vicinity is concerned, will be opened to the lovers of the "gran' old game" of Scotland Saturday when the Little Tom golf course at Channahon lake is opened for play.

On a block of ground just west of the Smith hotel the Smith family, two brothers and three nephews, have built a miniature course that will test the skill of any golfer who is proud of his putter strokes.

Patterned after the miniature courses that have sprung into great popularity among the Florida winter resorts, the Little Tom course offers almost every test of a golfer's skill with his putting irons that can be made. Among the 18 holes are dog-leg holes, holes with water hazards, holes requiring carom shots off the bunkers, holes with sand traps, holes where one-third the shot is through a hollow log. Several holes require shots of such accuracy as to pass into four inch tiles. Indeed, if the golf devotee, no matter how much he loves his game, doesn't find himself cursing Old Man Par, which is 45 for the course, before he gets through, he will be a man of heavenly patience. And it will be a world of fun for the non-golfer to show just how easy it is to be a golfer if one wants to be.

Shrubbery and flowers surround the course, while flower beds dot the open spaces, and a 100-watt lamp lights each hole for night playing. The sod, though transplanted this spring, is growing nicely. Altogether, Smith's Little Tom golf course, as illustrated elsewhere among the advertisements, is a pleasant spot.

GLIDER CLUB IS ORGANIZED HERE

Motorless Airplane Is Ordered— Demonstration Memorial Day

Organization of a glider club for Antioch and young men was effected Tuesday night at a meeting of enthusiasts for the project. The meeting which was held at Fawcett's Tailor shop, was well attended, and Ted Stanton, representative of the Midwest Airways, Milwaukee, had little trouble signing up the requisite number of members and the cash to warrant shipping the glider to Antioch. Seven men signed to become charter members of Antioch's first flying club. As an encouragement to the younger men, several business men are joining in the venture with the younger men.

Demonstration Friday

The glider, a Detroit Gull, for which the purchase order was signed, will arrive here some time during the week and next Friday, Memorial day, experts from Milwaukee will give a demonstration of flying in a motorless airplane. After the first flights the glider will be placed in Wetzel's Chevrolet Sales room, to await the signing of additional members for the club and the raising of the balance of the cash required to pay for the machine and to defray expenses of some member selected by the club to receive instructions in gliding at the Midwest airport in Milwaukee.

Have you joined the Glider club?

PAVILIONS PLAN SEASON OPENINGS

The Channahon Lake Pavilion will open for four nights and two matinees. Manager Homer Wlach announced this week. The opening dance will be on Thursday night when Doug Poppard and his Northwestern Troubadours will entertain. There will also be dancing on the three following nights with matinees on Decoration day and Sunday. The summer season, with dancing every night except Monday, will start June 23.

Manager C. E. Rademacher announces the season opening of Twin Lakes ballroom next Friday and Saturday, May 30 and 31. Mel Sittzel and his orchestra will play at the opening.

Earl Goltz and his Gold Coast orchestra will be featured at the Antioch Palace Saturday night, May 24. The Palace has been open for Saturday dances for many weeks.

Mrs. Medora Webb spent Tuesday in Chicago on business.

VILLAGE BOARD VOTES 1-HOUR PARKING LIMIT ON MAIN AND LAKE STS.

Vote Also to Employ Full- Time Police Officer on Yearly Basis

SALARY TO BE $1680 YEARLY

Limitation of parking time in the business district and employment of a full-time police officer for the coming year was voted by the village board in its special session Tuesday evening.

Ordinances will be drawn at once by the village attorney and submitted to the board for approval. If approved, and there is no reason to believe the board will change its mind in the matter unless unusually strong representations of disapproval are registered, the ordinances will then go into effect as soon as they can be published.

One Hour Only on Main and Lake

The denial of unlimited parking time affects Main street from Park to Orchard avenues and Lake street from Victoria avenue to Main street. The limit for parking, if the vote is translated into an ordinance, will be one hour. Only one block is affected on Lake street, that from the First National bank to the Tronson Studio corner. On Main street the stretch affected extends from just south of The News office to Wentworth's, Cupboard.

The idea underlying the action of the council is that with the influx of cottagers and vacationists within a few weeks, parking space within the retail district will be at a premium, even under the most favorable circumstances, and those who come early or have business places on the principal streets should not be allowed to "hog" the parking space to the inconvenience of others.

Favor Uniformed Policeman

The employment of a full-time officer for the summer period took form in a motion that John Brogan be employed at a salary of $140 per month. After the summer season passes Mr. Brogan will devote whatever time is necessary to assisting Marshal Simon Simonson in his work. Mr. Simonson will have charge of all street, alley, sewer and water work, but will also be available for police duty on special occasions.

The board recognized the need for a uniformed full-time police officer during the summer season, especially with reference to traffic problems, including the enforcement of the proposed one-hour parking law on Main and Lake streets. The hiring of Mr. Brogan will fill this need, board members declared.

Salary to be Saved from "Extras"

With village finances showing no surpluses in the past, the board felt, however, that certain occasional laborers could be dispensed with and the money thus saved would be sufficient to meet the salary of an additional village marshal, which will be Brogan's official title.

It was pointed out to a News reporter that extra labor for street work averages something like $50 per month, that $16 per quarter is paid a man for reading water meters, that $3 a month has been paid for an inspection of the septic tank, and that $125 is paid once or twice a year for cleaning out the catch basins in the village sewerage. The hiring of a second village marshal will obviate the necessity of spending these various sums, so it is said, and the money thus saved will aggregate a total sufficient to meet the yearly salary of the second marshal.

Odd Fellows Meeting Has Attendance of 162

One hundred sixty-two Odd Fellows of Lake county, and their friends, attended the meeting of the Lake County Odd Fellows association here last Thursday evening, according to R. E. Barnstable, noble grand of Lake Lodge 723. This was an even better attendance than was expected, according to Mr. Barnstable. Forty-one of the number were non-member friends.

Wilmette brought a delegation of 42 in a specially chartered bus, while Waukegan, Libertyville, Highland Park, and Antioch contributed large delegations.

The program of music, comedy skills, and speechmaking was an enjoyable one, and especial mention was made of a group of six banjo players and singers from Kenosha, Wis., who with songs old and new added much to the program.

OUR SEVEN LEAGUE BOOTS

Scientists of today say that the last half of the Nineteenth century and the first half of the Twentieth century will go down in history as the modern "Golden Age." Not the "Golden Age" perhaps of literature, art and drama, but the TRULY golden age of scientific progress.

The gap between the chiseled word and the modern printing press was short. The gap between the first internal combustion engine, fore-runner of our present servant, still shorter. And the span of years between the first experiments of Tesla, Watt, Ohm and those other first successful pioneer delvers into the mysteries of electrical energy and our own modern Edison, Bell and Marconi seems but a day.

And it is in the lifetime of active men of today that the first feeble telegraph instrument ticked forth its immortal message between two rooms; that the first faintly glowing bamboo fragment gave way to the flashing incandescent lights and beacons of today. Hill and Hariman were building railroads; Wilbur and Orville Wright experimenting at Kitty Hawk; Olds and Duryea and later Ford tinkering with "horseless carriages," when the present school child's parents were in school.

There was in those days no parcel post. And there was no rural free delivery. Street cars limped slowly, and the crowds abroad were not heading for a movie palace.

The mail order house was the delight of the farmer to whom trips to town by horse and wagon were long and laborious. Neighbors saw each other in scattered communities once in weeks, relatives living a few score miles apart visited once in years. A trip to a distant city was an adventure and marked a man as a traveler. And news good or bad came slowly by word of mouth or oft delayed letter.

What a difference between that picture and the one today of paved highways, lumbering trucks, great busses, skittering cars, the telephone, the radio, with television around the corner, we are told, surely within a score or so of months.

The use to which we put these servants determines our satisfaction in life—and our progress as well. The airplane offers swift transportation; the train learns of new competition from the bus in long as well as short distance journeys; "never before have the long distance toll lines been given the use the last year has known," say the telephone people; and the radio is the most recent actor to enter upon the stage of rapidly moving scientific drama.

It has given us a faster-moving life—a fuller life; more time for leisure, more knowledge of the world and its current affairs; a greater variety of activities and the greater time to give to them. It means progress for Antioch if we "keep in step with the world" with our Seven League Boots.

THE BACKLOG OF CREDIT

Potatoes are not nearly as fashionable at a party as avocados.

Beans are not as stylish on the hotel menu as frog legs.

Salt pork doesn't have the same rank at the banquet table as does caviar.

An insurance policy against fires and accidents lying in a safe, is not as thrilling to the owner as a steamship ticket to Europe.

But the work and progress of the world is carried forward by the millions of people who live largely on such foods as potatoes, beans and salt pork.

The security, credit and pleasure of the world is guaranteed by the insurance policy that stands back of every commercial enterprise. Without the protection of insurance, the reasonably-priced railroad and steamship ticket would be impossible and security for invested capital which employs the millions of workers who consume our potatoes, beans and salt pork, would be lacking.

The story of insurance is the story of the growth of modern civilization.

ty in which such public officer resides. Chap. 102, Sec. 5.

To Be Published

Such public officer shall also, within thirty days after the expiration of such fiscal year, cause a true, complete and correct copy of such statement to be published one time in a newspaper published in the town, district or municipality in which such public officer holds his office, or if no newspaper is printed and published in such town, district or municipality, then in the nearest newspaper printed in the English language published in the county in which such public officer resides. Chap. 102, Sec. 6.

In direct defiance of this Illinois statute, Antioch officials neglected to publish a financial statement last year: Antioch township has presumably complied with it by publishing a very brief summarized statement that means nothing, neglecting to publish the "name of each individual" on what account paid, and the amount," also the "items, particulars, and details" were completely ignored. There is no law in Illinois authorizing a summarized statement of the supervisor, and the practice as "followed in Waukegan" is no good at all, and, furthermore, here's the penalty for neglect of duty: Ill. Revised statutes, Chap. 102, sec. 10: "Any public officer, subject to the provisions of this act, failing, neglecting or refusing to discharge any duty imposed upon him by this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment in the county jail not longer than one year, or be punished by both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court." There it is—take it or leave it. Any taxpayer or citizen in the municipality would be acting wholly within his rights by causing charges to be brought against any officer neglecting to comply with the Illinois law by neglecting to have published a complete, itemized statement. What are the taxpayers going to do about it, continue to pay more taxes than ever before, and pay blindly, or will they demand the "break" they are entitled to by insisting upon seeing the published statements of receipts and expenditures?

That's all for this week.

Mrs. Charles Tiffany and small daughter, Joan, of Waukegan, spent Sunday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keulman. Mrs. Keulman continues to slowly improve in health. Wm. Keulman spent last Friday in Chicago on business and is there again today also.

VISITING THE SICK

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

It is a very commendable habit, this visiting the sick, and one which, with all our modern equipment and trained nurses to care for those who are not well, is not so generally found as it was fifty years ago or so. It is not only commendable; it is, in reality one of the human virtues for which heaven is the promised reward.

"I was sick, and ye ministered unto me," was an act for which one is to be rewarded with a heavenly inheritance. And yet, some one could do the world a service and possibly make a fortune for himself if he could establish a school for the purpose of teaching the ignorant what is best to do and to say, when visiting the sick, not to speak of what were well not longs her call for an hour or so, when twenty minutes would have been more than adequate, and spends the time in telling how amazingly well she is, how many herculean physical tasks she has recently performed, and how, if nothing unforeseen happens, she seems likely to live to be a hundred. Someway she does not sense the fact that this flouting of her exuberant health in the face of a woman who at best has only a few weeks of life before her, has not helped the invalid the easier to bear her own pains and disappointments.

Mrs. Higgins knows what to do when she comes into a sickroom. "What a lovely room you have," she says to Mrs. Ford, as she enters the sick chamber. "If you must be sick—and really you look better than you did when I was here before—you certainly have a beautiful place to stay in. Everybody's asking about you. Sometimes I think I'd be willing to be sick myself just to find out how many friends I had, and especially if I had as many as you have."

She stays hardly ten minutes but she leaves the sick woman cheered, hopeful, happy in the thought that she may, after all, get well, and if she doesn't she is not going to be forgotten, for she will be leaving behind those who love her.

HintsAmong Us Women
By Mrs. Ruth StoneRUBBER APRON KEEPS
SKIRTS WRINKLE-FREE

A wrinkled skirt is as embarrassing to well-dressed women as are crooked nose, seams or ill-kept hands. In these days of close-fitting frocks with ripples, hemlines, a creaseless skirt is more essential than ever. One of the best ways of keeping your dresses in good condition and with the minimum of effort and expense is to wear a lickety sanitary apron at all times. This tends to keep body warmth and perspiration from creasing one's skirts and makes them stay in much longer.

Sanitary aprons can be had in a variety of shades, styles and weights and at prices to suit all purses. There are sturdy aprons of good weight rubber for service use, silk faced, lace edged aprons for the woman who insists on daintiness at all times, and the softest, flimsiest aprons of gossamer weight in beautifully patterned rubber for evening and dress wear. In all styles, a shaped band of net, nainsook or silk over the hips makes the apron fit smoothly and allows for ventilation.

Many women prefer to have a sanitary apron in each trunk, so that there is no extra garment to be put on, nor strings around the waist, and the apron is always in perfect position. The apron is removed before the frock is sent to the cleaners. It should be washed in lukewarm water with pure soap flakes, and dried with a towel.

In addition to keeping skirts wrinkle free, and to affording periodic protection, the use of a sanitary apron tends to make transparent garments shadow proof.

Favorite Recipes
of a Famous Chef

As Told to Anne Baker
By LOUIS DIAT, Chef,
The Ritz Carlton, New York

Potage St. Germain and Creme Washington offer a soup and a vegetable dish with just enough of the French touch to make them a bit more than an acceptable addition to the family menu. Here is the way Mr. Diat prepares them.

Potage St. Germain—Wash well and soak for several hours one cup of split dried peas. Drain and plunge them into boiling salted water for twenty minutes. Chop coarsely one onion, one carrot, and two carrots. Brown them in two tablespoons of butter. Drain the peas and add them to the chopped raw vegetables. Shred and add three green lettuce leaves. Pour over this four cups of white stock, which is made from veal or chicken. Cook slowly for one hour. Rub through a strainer one cup of fresh green peas which have been boiled in salted and slightly sweetened water for twenty-five minutes. Add this puree to the potage. Pass the whole through a tammy, or very fine sieve. Reheat. Just before serving add one teaspoon of melted butter, two tablespoons of thin cream and two tablespoons of sugar. Serve with small croquettes fried in butter, or buttered and browned in the oven.

Creme Washington (Creme Corn)—Melt two tablespoons of butter and stir in two tablespoons of rice flour or cornstarch. Add slowly one can of corn. Stir carefully while it comes to a boil. Pass through a tammy or fine wire sieve. Add one cup of milk and reheat. Just before serving add one teaspoon of sugar and three tablespoons of heavy cream.

Are You Perplexed By One Of These Common
Beauty Problems?

I ALWAYS answer personally every beauty inquiry I receive, but so many of you have written to me about the same beauty problems that today I want to answer a few of these typical questions here. I know that many of you who have not written to me yet also must be bothered with the same problems:

E. B. writes: "The skin on my eyelids and under my eyes is drawn and dry. What can I do about this?"

Reply: Never go to bed without applying plenty of tissue cream or skin food all around your eyes. This cream will be absorbed during the night, and will help the oil glands in your skin to perform their natural function of keeping your skin soft and lubricated. Nothing shows age so quickly as this dried-up condition of the eyelids, and nothing is so easy to prevent if you will use tissue cream or skin food every night.

M. R. P. inquires: "What can I do about my elbows? They are becoming rough and hard."

Reply: Brush your elbows with a firm but not too stiff hand brush when you bathe. This will remove the little hardened bits of skin that tend to form. Every night put a bit of skin food or tissue cream into the palms of your hands and rub it into your elbows. This will keep your skin soft and smooth. Then, before going out in the evening apply powder lotion to your elbows.

T. D. S. writes: "My skin is very dry, and I am afraid that frequent bathing, especially during cool weather, will take too much oil out of my skin."

Reply: Be sure to use a pure, mild soap. Then after your bath always rub your body with muscle oil. This will stimulate your skin, and help to prevent it from becoming too dry.

M. S. G. asks: "How can I prevent a shiny nose?"

Reply: Shiny noses often occur because the skin is inclined to be oily. After cleansing your skin thoroughly with cleansing cream, wash your face with warm water and a pure, mild soap. Then tighten your pores with a mild astringent before applying foundation cream, powder and rouge. A good astringent will tighten up your skin and prevent too much oil coming out on your face to spoil the lovely, smooth effect for which you are striving.

Besides this external treatment, oily skins usually require some definite treatment from the inside. Incorrect diet has much to do with oily skins, and as a rule cutting down on sweets and starches will help to cure this condition. I would not advise you to begin a strenuous diet without first consulting your doctor, but you can safely use a little care in selecting your food.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 18.

The Golden Text was, "Henceforth know we no more after the flesh" (II Cor. 5:16).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon in the following from the Bible: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life" (II Cor. 5:1, 4).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science reveals the glorious possibilities of immortal man, forever unclouded by the mortal senses" (p. 288).

DISTRICT REBEKAH MEETING HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE

With an attendance that approached close to the 200-mark, the nineteenth annual meeting of District Three, Rebekah lodges, met in Antioch last Friday afternoon and evening, enjoyed a most pleasant session, elected new officers for the ensuing year, and passed into history as an unusually successful district meeting.

The memorial service conducted by Autumn Leaf lodge of Barrington was especially praised for its solemnity and beauty. And the arrangements made by the Antioch lodge, including the roast beef dinner served by Clark's Cafe, came in for an especial share of praise from the visitors.

Among the many acts of courtesy extended by the Lakeside Rebekah lodge was the presentation of bouquets of flowers to all the state and district officers. Mrs. Mary D. Runyard, Antioch, who retired as district president, was the recipient of a beautiful purse from her associate district officers of the past year.

The flowers to district and state officers were presented by a special guard of honor, composed of Mrs. Emma Larson, Bertha Olson, Pearl Hoffman, and Winifred Davidson.

New District Officers Chosen

The new district officers elected are: Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Waukegan, president; Mrs. Edna Watkins, Highland Park, vice-president; Mrs. Grace Howells, Crystal Lake, warden; Miss Emily Sanders, Waukegan, secretary; and Mrs. Margaret Whitney, Libertyville, treasurer. They were installed by Mrs. Grace Balrston, Waukegan, vice-president of Illinois state assembly, assisted by Mrs. Effie Sylanders, Chicago, as marshal.

CHANNEL LAKE COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

What Members of Popular Organization Are Doing

The Channel Lake club luncheon of last week, held at the Woman's University club, marked another happy occasion of that organization. The Woman's University club certainly has the distinction of serving their guests in a delightful manner, and on this occasion, following the afternoon card game, tea and wafers were also served.

The prize winners of the day were Mrs. Henry Paulson, first; Mrs. Wm. S. Mills, second; Mrs. Sommers (guest) third, and Mrs. Harry Arms, fourth.

Among those present were: Mrs. Gnaedinger, Paulson, Bayrd, Arms, Smyth, Sandell, Britton, Mills, Tankersley, Garsuch, Gifford, and Lafla. There were also seven guests.

It is most disappointing to the many members who count on a Sunday drive from the city and a pleasant day at the club, to have a cold rainy day such as last Sunday. However, many of those who have their cottages open and in running order, braved the elements and were out for over the week-end. Among this number were Mr. and Mrs. Mills, who, by the way, have their beautiful home on Lake Marie open the year around, and spend most of their week-ends in it. Other week-end sojourners were the Gnaedingers, Giffords, Tankersleys, Schmidts, Sandells, Arms, and Volk families. No doubt many others might be mentioned, but we will soon all be "among those present."

Oakland 4-H Group Organizes Club

The Oakland 4-H Sewing club of the Oakland school district has been organized with Mrs. Pierstorff as leader. The officers are: Grace Minto, president; Margaret Hughes, vice-president; Alice Golden, secretary and treasurer; Margaret Pierstorff, reporter.

Two meetings have been held and the work is progressing nicely. The next meeting will be held June 5.

Fortunes of baseball smiled on the Wilmot Pirates Sunday when that team won over Somers of Kenosha, 4 to 3, in a game that had all the earmarks of big league baseball, the victory putting the Pirates in the lead in the inter-county league, while Antioch was suffering a crushing defeat at the hands of Silver Lake, thus becoming cellar champs for the week at least. Silver Lake's victory over the locals was decisive, 14 to 3.

Chili winds added nothing to the way of enjoyment of fans nor to the skill of the players, and many errors were chalked up against them. Ray Miller, Antioch pitcher, had ten strikeouts to his credit, but was given rugged support. Timely hits and a few costly errors accounted for the large score.

Norman Richter pitched winning ball for Silver Lake, striking out eight batters and allowing seven

Wilmot Plays Big League Ball
Wilmot played big league ball at Kenosha Sunday afternoon—that's the brand it took to defeat Somers. Frank went the route on the mound for the Pirates while Dilly worked the entire nine rounds for Somers. Somers had men on the bases often enough but good support pulled Frank over some shaky spots. The work of M. Schurr at second was nothing short of remarkable. McDougal and Ehlert also made wonderful catches when the agate looked labeled for extra bases.

Schurr had three hits in four at-bats and Sullivan came along for two out of three, including a double.

GRADE SCHOOL "In School Days" HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Junior-Senior Prom Occurs Friday Night

The Junior-Senior banquet and prom inaugurates the activities of the high school commencement tomorrow evening. It will be presented this year in the form of a visit to Tokyo, Japan. Japanese names for the menu of the banquet and Japanese decorations for the auditorium, transformed for this evening into "Tokyo Gardens," give a characteristic touch of Cherry Blossom Land.

The banquet will be served at 7:00 in the school dining room. It will be prepared by Junior girls, assisted by some of their mothers, and will be served by the girls of the Sophomore class.

Oliver Hansen will serve as toastmaster following the banquet, and Lillian Hawkins, Mr. Gerald Reed, Miss Alice Smith, and Howard Mastno will respond to toasts, the titles of which also carry out the Japanese theme of the evening.

The prom will begin about 8:30 and will be held in the school auditorium. Twisted ropes of green and white crepe separate a colonnade around the walls of the room into a lounge space, where easy chairs and rugs will invite the restless dancers. Above the lattice of green and white the walls are entirely covered by foliage and long festoons and streamers of artificial cherry blossoms form a canopy from the chandeliers to the top of the greenery.

The arrangements for the prom and banquet are being supervised by Mrs. Gladys Dardenne and Mrs. Ruby Richey of the faculty.

Music will be furnished by an orchestra from Burlington, Wis.

Gavin School Pupils Present Clever Play

"Sally Ann Finds Herself" was the title of a clever two-act play presented by the grammar grade pupils of Gavin school Saturday night. It was all centered about activities of Foxcourt grade school, when during preparations for a basketball game the arrival of unexpected guests and lost ring are incidents that create near tragedy and much comedy. However, the ring is found, in the second act, and the little romance ends happily for all concerned.

Members of the cast, included: Della Newton, Beatrice Jorgenson, Lorraine Perkins, Clifford Hanson, Bob Graham, Helen Stratton, Harriet Stanton, William Klein, Tom Graham, and Beatrice Ullmann.

Graduation Wednesday
Invitations have been sent out by the eighth grade class for the graduation exercises to be held at the school Wednesday night, May 28, at 8:00 o'clock, daylight saving time.

Gavin school, near Ingleside, is one of the county's superior rural schools. J. L. Miller has been teacher for the last four years.

Welterweight Champ of Mich. Headlines Bout

The eight-bout card offered by the Antioch Palace to fight-lovers Friday evening features A. Kuzmicki, welterweight champ of Michigan, and Lou Buckman, the Rockford Flash. They meet at 147 pounds and should afford one of the interesting fights of the season. The semi-windup brings together John Hughes, Kenosha, Wis., and Howard Craft, Grayslake. This is a challenge bout and both are reported to be out for blood.

The remaining six bouts bring together E. Kratochvil, Racine, Wis., J. Connelly, Chicago; in a return match; Eugene Berton, Kenosha, Wis., and L. Thompson, Barry's gym, at 118 pounds; A. Berton, Kenosha, Wis., and Oscar O'Hannon, Waukegan, at 112 pounds; Ed. Garlow, Kenosha, Wis., and Harry Blmer, Barry's gym, at 142 pounds; B. Bernhart, Two Lakes, Wis., and Tony Paulillo, Barry's gym, at 150 pounds; and Ed. Peterson, Kenosha, Wis., and Victor DeMeyer, Libertyville, at 145 pounds.

Last Week's Results

In the main bout on last Friday's program, Karl Ogren, Kenosha, Tribune Golden Gloves champ in the 147 pounds division, outclassed Johnny Taylor, colored boxer of Waukegan, from start to finish of their three rounds.

Syd Kaplan, Chicago, also a Golden Gloves champion, won a three-round bout from George Goodman, Chicago. Both these bouts were good and pleased the crowd.

Eugene Berton, Kenosha, won a technical knockout from B. Adams in the second round. Jimmy Fay, McKenry, won over R. Crody, Chicago. Audena Berton, Kenosha, lost a decision to O. Malou, Chicago. Geo. Taylor, Waukegan, took a close decision over Johnny Connolly, Chicago. Tony Mascarello, Chicago, won from Gerald Varmysler, Geneva, D. Krody trounced J. Lunetto, Chicago.

LEGION NOTES

Final details for the observance of Memorial day in Antioch were arranged Wednesday evening at a meeting of members of the Antioch Post, American Legion, and other organizations. The program will be published in the next issue of the News.

One of the best attended meetings of the year was held by the county council at Deerfield Friday evening.

the home of Commander Kapaskull of the eighth district. The district comprises 15 well organized Legion posts in Lake county. A number of officers from other districts were present.

A plea was put before the members to furnish bugles for the boys at Hospital No. 105, Five Points, North Chicago. When a collection for this purpose was taken up $30 was contributed.

Prizes for posts and individual members were issued by the district membership committee. Commander Horan received a five-dollar goldpiece for having Antioch post rated in the second division in membership.

Members of Antioch Post No. 748, American Legion, are invited to attend the memorial services at the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening. John L. Horan, post commander, asks that the members of the post take notice of this invitation and attend, if possible.

GOES TO SOURCE OF STOMACH AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

New and Different Medicine Amazes Man Who Suffered Five Years

MR. CARL KINKADE

"I lived in misery for five years, constantly tortured by constipation, kidney trouble, and nervousness, said Mr. Carl Kinkade, 1120 North Eighth street, Springfield, Illinois. 'I was on a diet for several months and barely managed to live on the small amount of food I ate. I had pains round my heart, due to gas bloating. My back, especially in the region of my kidneys, ached constantly. 'I used medicine for a long time, and when Kinkade was mentioned I thought it was just another so-called remedy that gave only temporary relief. But what a surprise I was in for! Just four bottles brought about such a change in me that I know I had at last found the right medicine. I have gained fifteen pounds, and all my former pains have disappeared. I have given up the diet and now I can eat anything. My kidneys are functioning perfectly, and my back no longer aches. I owe my health to Kinkade alone.'

When taken for six to eight weeks, Kinkade, the new and different medicine, will work wonders that will astonish those who suffer from the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels, and from rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness. Kinkade is sold in Antioch, Ill., at S. H. Reeves' drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

SENIOR PLAY, "FIXING IT FOR FATHER," GIVEN AT WILMOT TONIGHT

Basketball Schedule Planned for Next Year Arranges 12 Games

Don't forget the Senior class play, "Fixing It For Father," at the gymnasium Friday night, May 23. Reserved seats may be obtained at the high school. The cast consists of Prof. John Radon, of Westport College, B. Frederick Glinnere; Ellaor, his daughter, Iola Harm; Beatrice, his daughter, Irene Haase; Dick Cunnard, his brother-in-law; Donald Schmalfeldt; Emma Blanchard, his sister-in-law; Myrtle Davis; William Merton, his boyhood friend; Richard DeBell; Harold, Merton's son; Erwin Rasch; Harry Chalmers, in love with Beatrice; John Freeman; Jack Denton, in love with Ellaor; Adolph Flegel; Fanchon La Vonde, the widow; Mariel Dean, Aunt Lize, the autocrat of the Radon household; Amy Harm, Synopses—Ellaor and Beatrice discover that their father is carrying on a correspondence with a matrimonial bureau widow, so they decide to "Fix It For Father." Jack disguises as the widow and Harry as the Prof., unknown to each other. They meet and then the real widow appears. If you want to know what happens be at the Wilmot gym; Friday, May 23rd.

The South Eastern Conference held their annual meeting at Williams Bay on May 12th to draw up a basketball schedule for 1930-1931. At the meeting Union Grove and Walworth were admitted to the conference. The Wilmot schedule is as follows: December 5, Clinton at Clinton; December 12, Williams Bay at Wilmot; January 9, Union Grove at Union Grove; January 16, Watford at Wilmot; January 23, Genoa City at Genoa City; January 30, Walworth at Walworth; February 5, Clinton at Wilmot; February 13, Williams Bay at Williams Bay; February 17, Walworth at Wilmot; February 27, Union Grove at Wilmot; March 6, Watford at Watford; March 13, Genoa City at Wilmot.

Monday afternoon, May 12, at 2:30 o'clock both the high school and grades were entertained by Flaming Arrow, a full blooded Indian from Utah who is giving health talks throughout the state under the auspices of the Wisconsin Anti-Tubercular League. His program consisted of telling Indian legends, singing songs and doing an Indian War dance, at all times emphasizing the necessity of good health. All present were very much pleased with his performance.

Wilmot and Burlington Hi-Y clubs met at the West Kenosha County park last Wednesday afternoon and played a play ground ball. After the game a wolverine eating contest was held. Several boys tied for first honors in the number of Hot Dogs consumed.

In a close and interesting game of baseball Watford defeated Wilmot last Thursday at the Wilmot Baseball park. The final score was 8-11. There are two more games on the Wilmot schedule: Genoa City at Genoa City on May 21; and Clinton at Wilmot on May 28.

M. M. Schurr was elected secretary and treasurer of the conference for the coming year.

The final meeting of the P. T. A. association for the year was held at the gymnasium Tuesday evening. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, George Dean; vice-president, David Eilers; secretary, Ruth Thomas; treasurer, Mrs. Guy Loftus.

As we review the work of the year accomplished by the P. T. A. we find many things accomplished but many more waiting to be done, and it is hoped that next year everyone in the community will join the organization and put their shoulder to the wheel.

There will be English services Sunday morning at ten o'clock at the Lutheran church. Ascension services, May 29, will be at eight o'clock in the evening.

MERCHANTS SPONSOR FREE PICTURE SHOWS IN LAKE VILLA PARK

Thos. Peterson, 72, Passed Away Last Thursday Morning

The picture shows in the park every Friday evening are well attended in spite of cool weather. These shows are sponsored by the merchants of the village and show good pictures.

Obituary

Thos. Peterson passed away at his home here early Thursday morning after an illness of several months. Death was due to paralysis, and his wife and children tenderly cared for him to the end.

He was born in Germany in January 1858 and was 72 years of age. He came to the United States at the age of 22 and made Rochester, Wis., his home. Forty-seven years ago Mr. and Mrs. Peterson were married at Watford, Wis., and lived there until about 17 years ago when they came to Lake county, Illinois. They have been members of the Lutheran church all their lives. Twelve children were born and eight survive—two sons and six daughters—Henry and William Peterson of Lake Villa, Christine Gerber and Carollee Weinborn of Burlington, Margaret Scharf of Racine, Marie Dixon of Lake Villa, Eleanor Toltz of Chicago and Lulu Bruckner of Milwaukee; also 19 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Mr. Peterson was always a very friendly man and had many friends.

The funeral was held from the Lake Villa church Saturday afternoon, Rev. Jeddle of Wilmot Lutheran church officiating. Frank Shorwood sang. Interment was in Lake Villa cemetery.

Mrs. Frank Nader was in Fox River Grove, Ill., a few days last week visiting with relatives.

The Ladies' Aid society had a very enjoyable meeting with Mrs. Seeger at Gurnee last Wednesday. Mrs. Pederson will entertain the society at her home in West View addition on Wednesday, June 4, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pederson had several guests from the city over Sunday.

Miss Elsie Schlabach went to Joliet Saturday to spend over Sunday with her sister there.

Beginner and Primary classes of the Sunday school were entertained at a party by Mrs. C. B. Hamlin and Viola Johnson Saturday afternoon at the Hamlin home. The children are finishing the materials to be sent to the Philippine Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phillip has as guests Saturday and Sunday Mr. Phillip's sister and two children from Northern Wisconsin.

Mrs. Fred Hamlin entertained her group at a Vanishing party at her home last Thursday evening, and Mrs. Pederson had her group Tuesday afternoon of this week. The Vanishing parties have been very successful in every way for the Aid society.

BANKERS TO HOLD GREAT CONVENTION

Cleveland, Ohio, has been designated for the 1930 annual convention of the American Bankers Association. This organization, which numbers about 20,000 banks with $65,000,000,000 in assets, is annually the nation's most important financial event. The attendance ranges between five and ten thousand.

Cleveland is especially significant in the history of the Association's educational traditions since it was in this city, when the organization last met there in the year 1899, that the original resolution was presented looking to the formation of an educational section. This subsequently resulted in the American Institute of Banking in which are now enrolled 35,000 bank men and women engaged in the study of the technical and scientific phases of the business.

Sunday school and church services will be held on daylight saving time during the summer. Many were late last Sunday, but we hope for better results next Sunday.

Mrs. B. S. Hadad has been confined to her bed by illness during the past week.

Mrs. Ruth Russell and small daughter, who live in Maine, came last week Wednesday for a month's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Swanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Skofstad and family of Waukegan spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Avery and Mrs. Lola Avery attended the funeral of W. B. Smith in Waukegan Monday afternoon. Mrs. Smith is a sister of Mrs. Lola Avery.

Final exams for Lake Villa pupils were given at Gavin school Monday with others, and school closes this week. We understand that Miss Schlabach and Miss Finch will remain, but Mr. Mohr has accepted a position in his home town as journalist and Miss Sehora will teach at Mundelein.

This Electric Cooker
for home and picnics is now only 95¢ down

... and $1 a month for 9 months

The Corona Cooker is a compact electric oven you can take with you wherever you go. Like a large thermojug, it keeps foods hot or cold for hours. You can take it in the car to the woods or the beach and enjoy a warm, perfectly-cooked dinner (for six) without fuss or bother.

It is just as handy for home meals and gives you, on a small scale, all the advantages of electric cookery. Aluminum utensils for baking, steaming, broiling and frying come with the Corona. The cooker can be used either upright or in a horizontal position and its steel case, finished in silver-gray enamel, will resist rough usage.

RULES REGULATING THE EXTENSION OF CREDIT

- 1 We reserve the right to call for immediate payment of any open account, without regard as to the time it has been outstanding, if in our judgment a debtor is not a satisfactory credit risk.
- 2 If an account is opened and no effort is made by the debtor to make proper settlement or if the debtor discontinues trading with us leaving the account unsettled, then the account will be prosecuted in a manner which will bring a settlement. Additional court costs will have to be paid by the debtor.
- 3 An account shall be construed to mean whatever is purchased on open credit from the beginning to the end of a calendar month, shall become due and payable subject to our discount allowances, not later than the 10th of the month following. The length of time to run thereafter if still unpaid shall be left with us to determine and dispose of as we see fit, in accordance with the above mentioned conditions.
- 4 Long time credit terms are herewith discontinued except where security is given or special arrangements made. The purpose of this notice is to call your attention to our credit rules and the system, which shall govern the conditions under which credit will be extended in the future on open accounts. Your business is solicited in accordance with these terms.
- 5 The above rules and regulations are absolutely essential to the condition of our business and are identical with the rules and conditions under which we have to make purchases at the present time. We are required to conform to these rules in order to do business. We do turn ask for the co-operation of our customers in meeting the same terms, which we have to meet. We feel that these rules are just and fair to all.

Music Festival Wins High Praise from the Visiting Band Leader

 rehearsals together, and had never seen Mr. Mader before; but this stirring and complicated piece of music was played with a vim and snap and expression that was truly marvelous. Both Mr. Mader and the band received ovations.
 Next came the girls' "glee club" of 150 voices in four songs. To say that they sang surprisingly well is putting it mildly. They sang without notes, and part of the time without accompaniment. Their enunciation was so excellent that with the 150 voices the words were easily followed.

Next came a chorus of about 120 young men and older boys.
Great Male Chorus
 We did not know that boys close to the time when their voices change, could be made to sing like that. They too, gave four difficult chorus numbers without notes.

Here is where the boys hardly had a fair deal; after a short intermission they had to go right on singing with the mixed chorus for four more numbers, including the great "Hallelujah," by Handel, that no tenors or sopranos except hardened and mature singers, not too tired, can get away with.
Grand Orchestra
 Next came the immense orchestra, in the familiar strains of Schubert's "Marche Militaire," then in the "Menuetto" from 3rd Symphony by Haydn, then "Parting March" from Leonore Symphony by Raff, and the Spanish Dance by Moszkowski, which was brilliantly played, making a fitting finale.

Glowing Tribute Paid
 Mr. Dvorak, the guest conductor, then turned to the audience and paid the tribute to the work of the boys and girls, and their faithful, efficient teachers, as quoted at the beginning of this article.
 The marvel of their performance is heightened, he said, by the fact that only two rehearsals were had together. It was therefore an eloquent testimony to the thorough work done by the teachers in the high schools and the system by which they prepared for this festival.

"I am only the show case," said the guest conductor, giving the credit to the teachers, who were called out to make their bows to the audience: Miss Hedvig Rice and Mr. Lee Peterson, Antioch; Miss Grace Fetherston and Mr. W. N. Sears, Arlington Heights; Miss Dorothy Young and Mr. Daniel Mason, Barrington; Miss Mildred Helling and Mr. Lynn Huffman, Bensenville; Miss Cornelia Roberts, Miss Loretta Milkwick, and Mr. Samuel Dorsey, Elk; Miss Ina Mae Sanders and Mr. Paul Schenk, Libertyville; Miss Florence Underwood and Mr. Leroy A. Stark, Palatine; Paul J. Schenk, Warren, and Miss Marlon Louvrien of Wauconda. The committee in charge of the festival was Mr. L. O. Bright, chairman; Mr. J. Paul Schenk, principal; Mr. H. E. Underbrink, as local manager.

Music Festival Briefs
 John Tellalsha of Antioch and Alendale was selected by Mr. Dvorak as being the outstanding musician of the entire group. He was chosen concert master of the orchestra. He also did fine work in the boys' glee club and chorus.

About 500 musicians from the ten schools participated in the festival. This will be one of the high lights in their high school career.

Mr. Dvorak is certainly an inspirational conductor for high school boys and girls.

Mr. Schwenk of Libertyville is to be highly complimented for his detailed work as production manager.

To Antioch goes the credit of bringing the festival into being. Mr. Bright conceived the idea and has been chairman of the committee in charge of both festivals.

From the number of parents attending the festival, one would be convinced that music is indeed important in their estimation.

Every one of the 2,000 persons in the auditorium went away feeling that he was a winner. There were no losers.

Of the colles in the orchestra, Antioch furnished 4. Antioch also furnished 3 of the 4 string bases.

The Antiochian choir led by Miss Rice was a part of the most effective number on the entire program. Adoramus To with this echo effect stands out supreme. The President of the Carl Fischer Publishing Co., said, "I have heard this number given dozens of times by professionals, but this is the most effective rendition I have ever heard."

Among Those Present

Ask those who know "Mother Roche" at Petite Lake and they will tell you to bring along an appetite.

There's a warmth in the welcome you receive as you enter and gather about the table for an appetizing, wholesome meal, skillfully prepared by "Mother Roche" herself.

It's early summer at Petite Lake, but already a few of the great and near great have arrived. They come here to fish or just to relax their nerves and enjoy a little of the ether side of life away from the clang of city streets. Here one finds a new delightful sense of comfort—a complete lot-down.

Among the early arrivals was a most interesting little person whose fame as an author preceded her—Olive Drake of Chicago. After completing her new novel a few weeks ago, she came to Petite Lake for a rest.

Three times each day when guests gather she entertains the others with witty conversation. If Miss Drake writes as well as she talks, her new book, soon off the press, will be a great success. Frankly, it is known what it is, so the customers will just have to sit and look and listen until it is released by the publishers.

Our Seven League Boots

The daily magic in the conquest of space and time has given us new ears, new feet—shortcuts over distance and time. Our present-day systems of transportation and communications have out-stepped the legendary "Seven League Boots."

Our standard of living is largely based on these modern conveniences of transportation and communication. The airplane, railroad, interurban, street car, bus, automobile and truck; the radio, telegraph, telephone, postal service and printing press are among the modern marvels which have speeded up our life, cut down space and distance, and brought the whole world to our door.

The most successful and prosperous people are those who insist on having these modern conveniences available for their use—and who make the fullest use of them for effective living.

Have you ever stopped to think:

That there is now an average of one automobile to every home in the United States.

That at least every other home has a telephone.

That statistics say that radios are in almost as common usage as the telephone.

Every form of convenience in modern communication and transportation is within our reach—is ready and waiting for us to make efficient use of.

And by putting these modern marvels to the proper use of serving us and each other, we are forging ahead as a community and as a living center.

One of the greatest differences between people and communities is the use they make of these modern conveniences of transportation and communication.

Let's put our modern "Seven League Boots" to the best possible use in our competition with other towns and cities for superiority for

Youth Found in Lead in the Open Country

A study of where folks live and what they do in rural counties is given in a new bulletin on the rural population of Tompkins and Schuyler counties, New York, by Prof. Bruce L. Melvin of Cornell university.

Youth is found in the open country, he says, and age in the villages; this age difference and the natural preferences of different ages bring a problem that must be met in the community organization and in education, Professor Melvin points out. Industrial influences on districts surrounding cities change the classification more than is generally apparent. Ithaca township, surrounding Ithaca city, has nearly 60 per cent of its residents in the non-farming group. That township has about 54 people for each square mile; Cayuta township, in Schuyler county, the other extreme, has not quite 13 people for each square mile.

Families are largest in the industrial village and smallest in the incorporated rural villages. The industrial villages have most men in the productive ages of from 15 to 49 years.

The Alaskan Flag

Alaska has recently adopted an official flag. It has a blue field, bordered on three sides with a narrow band of gold. In the upper right-hand corner appears a polar bear and below it the constellation Ursa Major, with its two "pointers" indicating the North star. The field of blue is held to symbolize the evening sky, the sea, mountain lakes and the wild flowers of Alaska; and the gold border, the wealth in Alaskan hills and streams. Polar bears are the ever-constant guide of the explorer, woodsman, prospector and surveyor. And Alaskans hope that the northernmost star may some day take its place as the forty-ninth in our national emblem.

Earthquake's Vagaries

An earthquake lighted a cantaloupe field at Brawley, Calif., recently when a tremor caused small geysers to spout five inches high over the 160-acre field owned by the S. A. Gerrard company. The water irrigated the entire field and then flooded adjacent areas before subsiding. Small sand piles were left in the wake of unusual inundation, and a beet field nearby was completely covered by new sand.

STORY FROM THE START

Capt. Lion Fellowes' American merchant ship is sunk by a British frigate off Portugal in the War of 1812. The crew surrenders, but Fellowes reaches shore exhausted. His life is saved by an English-speaking girl, who conceals her identity. She is about to set out for Lisbon. Fellowes goes to Lisbon where he meets an acquaintance, Capt. Chatter of the American ship True Bounty, who offers him a berth as a mate, but knowing Chatter is disloyal in trading with the enemy, he refuses. He meets the girl who saved his life, Clara Ingleton, daughter of the owner of True Bounty. She is bound for home and induces Fellowes to sail as mate. He is in love with Clara. The vessel is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Captain Collishawe. Despite his claims to American citizenship, Fellowes is taken aboard the frigate as a "prisoner" man. Muddled at what he believes is Clara's and Chatter's treachery he strikes Collishawe, who orders him a hundred lashes with the "cat." Fellowes' hatred of the three becomes an obsession. Off New York Fellowes escapes from the frigate and escapes from the frigate. He escapes a plot in a meeting to be held at Chatter's home and gathers a company of militia to circumvent the plotters.

Feet shuffled in the dust, and Fellowes found himself, with Coffee and Tom and Nimrod Sopher, leading the Fencibles west on the South Country road. From the rear of the little column echoed the mountainous imitation of Sergeant Peirt: "Hayfoot, strawfoot! Hayfoot, strawfoot! Hayfoot—"

The ancient's reiterated refrain died away in the chatter of the tree-tops. There was only the "shush-shush, slap-slap" of feet in the dust, the rustling of equipment, the tense breathing of men laboring under excitement held in leash. It must be very late, Fellowes reflected, well along toward dawn; but the mist, low-lying over the swampy lands bordering the bay, thickened the darkness. Collishawe should be on the point of departure—the Englishman was no fool; in any case, would wish to keep his landing secret.

They tramped around a curve in the road, and Coffee, at Fellowes' elbow, stiffened with a jerk.

"Win' dat?" he whispered.

Simultaneously, came a ball from the shadows in front:

"Alo! therel! Lay to!"

And a bosun's whistle trilled, sharp and clear.

"Hick yer oars, Clinch," roared Tom O'grain.

Misals exploded among the trees; the whistle trilled again, sharper, more piercing.

"Our cutlasses," bellowed Clinch. "Stand by to receive boarders."

Behind them Fellowes heard Peirt, quaveringly authoritative:

Form column—by fours—left into line—forward! Shift—brellocks! Present—brellocks! Aim—fire!"

The crushing detonation of thirty stuns of arms dismayed the sailors, outwithstanding the millthamen's bullets flew in every direction save the enemy's. Fellowes detected their flight by the crackling of tree branches and Clinch's fervid oaths, and summoned the Fencibles to pursue.

"After them, boys! Give 'em the cold steel!"

Tom was off already, Mrs. Rhodes' ax brandished at the length of his upleek arm, bowling challenges to Clinch. "Coffee leaped into the woods, screening a weird slogan learned in the jungles of Coromandel. Sopher continued to emit twittering calls that ran the gamut from falsetto to bass, trotting next to Fellowes. The Fencibles followed stoutly.

The pursuit receded from the road, traversing a belt of trees which hid the antagonists from each other, bewildering both sides, and presently split off of the grove on to a range of cultivated fields. The light was growing, Fellowes perceived. In the distance, Chatter's house was a white blur against a windbreak of tufted elms. Clinch launched a vigorous exclamation as soon as the increased visibility revealed the scanty numbers and character of the attackers.

"Come on, badgers," the bosun encouraged his men. "Carry it to 'em, boys! Slice the lights out of 'em! They're only millshy!"

The sailors responded gallantly, coming forward in a compact group, sure-footed and agile; and the millthamen, unlight of balance, out of breath, most of them with their guns empty, were disposed to run, despite Sergeant Peirt's angry appeals. Sopher, vocal at last, stood stockstill, wheeling his saber and crying shrilly: "Follow your captain, men! Follow your captain!" It was Fellowes, with Tom and Coffee, supported by Peirt, who checked the impact of the sailors, and gave the Fencibles an opportunity to rally. He flung his empty pistol into the charging group, snatched a clubbed rifle from one of the fluttering millthamen, and attacked Clinch, himself—who recognized the long slender with a yell of incredulity.

"Shut me, hadl! Owd ye git 'ere?" "Surrender, Robt! You're cornered." "Not me! Bob Clinch don't strike 'is colors—"

But in the midst of his defiance, the knot of sailors disintegrated, as Coffee smashed the head of one and Tom hewed a second from shoulder to waist. The Fencibles, who had been on the verge of flight, were intimidated with ferocity by their first sight of blood, and eagerly resumed the pursuit.

"Surrender, Robt," Fellowes urged again.

"Not if I knows it," retorted the bosun, dodging a blow with a clubbed rifle. He parried another swing, then stooped and grabbed a fold of Fellowes' shirt, jerking it over the long islander's head. Blinded and hampered, Fellowes stumbled to his knees, and by the time he had ripped off the tattered garment and scrambled up, half-naked, Clinch was safely out of reach.

The sailors recovered rapidly from their panic, and made for the creek bank, halting at intervals to fire their pistols and gain a breathing spell. Daylight, Fellowes realized, would increase the thinness of his raw men, and he called anxiously to Sopher: "We must finish this while we have the darkness for cover. One more charged fire a volley, and drive them into the creek."

Peirt cried gallantly: "That's the way we took 'em at Saratoga! Keep 'em in!" The British' run fast as any feller if they see buy'nits to thur gizzards. Hearts up, now, boys! With powder 'n' ball—load! Present—brellocks! Aim—fire!"

The greasy powder-smoke billowed across the field, and the Fencibles trotted with it, making no pretense at order, unable for the moment to see what the enemy was doing, and therefore persued they were beaten. Fellowes, in advance of the line and not yet blanketed by the smoke, saw the sailors fall prostrate as the American's muskets letted flame. Then Clinch's whistle piped distinct in the racket of musketry and implacable cheering, a cannon boomed on the creek, and a host of sinister voices whined through the dank air. Grape-shot! Fellowes knew what that meant: the longbunt's three-pounder had been brought to bear on them. And he knew, too, by their frightened yells, that the Fencibles were in headlong retreat.

"Peirt," he shouted, "Sergeant! Can't you hold your own? Sopher! Nimrod!"

But his only answer came from Tom O'grain, who bobbed up out of the smoke beside him.

"The old feller took a whiff o' grape 'twixt wind-and-winter, messmate," Tom reported. "And that air millshy cnp's 'off on 't'other tack under full sail, along o' the rest o' his squadron."

"Where's Coffee?"

"The negro towered erect at mention of his name.

"Coffee wid yo' marn'r," he answered simply.

French Beggars Flock to Their Special Mass

The great church of Sacre Coeur (Sacred Heart) on the heights of Montmartre, Paris, has a feature that could not be duplicated in any other church in the world. Every Sunday morning at eight o'clock there is "Beggars' Mass." Fully climbing the steps come hundreds of the down-and-outs of Paris, some untidy and shivering, others in rags and still others bent over with physical infirmities. But they are proud of their special service, and the mass is said to them by the elder military of the church. The service is complete in everything but the collection. As the poor go out each receives 25 centimes—a nickel in the old days—and a small good for a large piece of bread. In special church days the gift is increased, and the attendance is larger. An office is also maintained to help them get work. Speaking of these Sunday services a church dignitary said: "If there remains a spark un-

"Three of 'as left," growled Fellowes. "But we can't fall like this. We must take Collishawe."

They stepped out of the smoke onto the creek bank as the longboat was backing into midstream. The gun in her bows no longer aimed their way, but several sailors discharged pistols at them. Collishawe, in the stern sheets, bending over a wounded man, straightened at a word from Clinch, who held the tiller.

Fellowes waded waist-deep into the creek.

"Collishawe," he shouted. "D'you hear me, Collishawe?"

The Badger's captain rose slowly to his feet, motioning to several of his crew to put aside their pistols.

"I hear you," he answered clearly.

"This is Fellowes—Lion Fellowes, whom you flugged. Will you come ashore, and fight me, man to man?"

"How did you come here, Fellowes?"

"Never mind how I came here," Fellowes waited further out, the bottom mud clutching at his feet. "Will you come ashore, and fight me, man to man? Choose your weapons, choose mine. You and all your men shall go off, unhurted, whatever happens to me."

"That is impossible," the Englishman replied deliberately. "I am an officer on duty. I cannot indulge in personal quarrels."

Gripped as he was by a rage that was volcanic in its force, Fellowes never for a second doubted the honesty of his enemy's position. Say what he might of Collishawe, he would believe the Englishman courageous, normally courageous, as well as physically. He choked down his wrath, and as Collishawe remained standing, with an effect of courtly allowing him the last word, he called again:

"Very well, I'll come to you."

Collishawe bowed.

"I shall be ready, Fellowes."

He resumed his seat, the longboat's oars feathered and dipped, and she pulled away for the mouth of the creek, as the first pink of the sunrise stained the east. Fellowes waded ashore, less disgruntled than he had been. For Collishawe's parting words had recognized their equality. They were no longer captain and common sailor, superior and infinitely inferior; but two enemies, who should encounter on a level plain of equality, honorable, however bitter the hatred which knit their interests as closely as though they had been aiding friends. And somehow, hatred added cleaner in Fellowes' mouth—much, much cleaner than the hatred he held for the three who remained in the farmhouse beyond the creek fields.

CHAPTER VII

A Nolle Prosequi

The glow in the east was deepening. Objects that had been obscure assumed their proper shape. Fellowes' whole being, now that Collishawe had escaped, was concentrated upon the punishment of the three who remained in Chatter's house. Climbing the creek bank, he set his face in that direction and led the way across the trampled fields, pausing only when they came upon a rusty-brown sprawl of limbs in a furrow of beet tops. Pale lips mumbled unhappily:

"D—millshy! Takes—Continental—stand—cannon—"

"We can't leave Peirt out here," exclaimed Fellowes. "His wounds must be dressed."

"Nathin! to do for their wounds," grunted Tom. "Looks like he'd stopped a roundshot."

"You drove the Britishers, Peirt," Fellowes tried to comfort him. "We'd have been beaten without you."

"Drove 'em—hey?" The wrinkled face lightened. "Jest—like—Saratoga." His breath quickened. "Give 'em—bay'nk!—boys—see L. But—takes—Continental—"

He sighed faintly, and the light in his face went out.

"Poor old Peirt," Fellowes said sadly. "If we'd had a dozen like him Collishawe couldn't have escaped. Pick him up, Coffee. We'll carry him with us."

Coffee handed Mrs. Rhodes' musket to Tom, and gathered the frail body in his arms, cradling it with a gentleness that was almost maternal.

"Him Cll Bitty Man, but plenty brave," he murmured.

Fellowes strode along, absorbed once more in contemplation of his vengeance, unconscious of the ghastly figure he made, plastered with mud and water, his naked torso hideously scarred by the livid welts of the cat.

Married on a Dare

By NELLIE R. GATES (Copyright.)

BILL HUNT had never been known to take a dare. If there was anything big, dangerous or foolhardy to be done and if Big Bill were approached in the right way, with a hint or a dare, it was as good as done. And Bill glared in his reputation of daringest man in the county, a reputation that he had devoted most of his thirty-odd years in acquiring.

Naturally the chief sport of the little village on the edge of the Maine woods was thumping up ways to test Bill's courage. One day Tom Hauasse had an idea. As Bill was sitting his own tobacco on the counter, the storekeeper being in the back room, Tom winked at the crowd about the stove and said, "There's one thing you can't do, Bill Hunt, not if you was to try a thousand years."

"What's that?" inquired Bill, nonchalantly.

"Marry Minnie Adams."

"Z-z-z-z?" Bill brushed up the crumbs of tobacco on the counter and rammed them into his pipe with his thumb. "Z-z-z-z?" but his brown cheeks reddened under the laughter that followed Tom's words.

"Yes, 'tis so, and you know it," Tom went on, encouraged by the titters of the crowd. "Ever since Minnie's father died and left her that farm and five thousand in the bank, she thinks every fellow that looks cross-eyed at her is after her money."

"Been trying your hand at it, you know so much about it, Tom?" asked the village wit, and under cover of a roar of laughter, Big Bill left the store.

But Tom's words ranked. So he couldn't marry Minnie Adams, couldn't he? Bill had always been shy with women, they hadn't entered much into his scheme of things—still—

That night Bill called on Minnie Adams. Minnie and Bill had been to district school together, but he had forgotten she was so nice. In a few weeks Big Bill, lost in a heaven of Minnie's making, had absolutely forgotten about the dare. That fall they were married and Bill went to live with Minnie on the Adams place. Of course, Tom Hauasse never referred to the dare; he had lost and he thought he would let well enough alone. But the whole village buzzed with gossip over it, and naturally it wasn't long before some one told Minnie.

When Bill came in that evening, Minnie met him at the door. "Now, Minnie, dear, listen—"

"Don't you Minnie dear," he said. "I was getting on well enough before you came," tears stood in her eyes, but they flashed beneath them in anger, and "I guess I can get along without you again. I am not going to have you living off father's money, just because old Tom Hauasse said you couldn't get me." Really, that was awfully unfair of Minnie, because Bill had insisted from the first that that money was all hers, he made enough to keep them by gulling and tripping.

He was to leave for Long Pond that afternoon with a Mr. Ormond from Richmond, Va. Minnie refused to even say good-by. Two weeks later the two men were paddling across Big Lake when they heard the dipping of paddles and around a bend came another canoe. It was Tom Hauasse and two other guides.

"There he is now," shouted Tom. "You two fellows come on. We are going into Homer's for the night." Tom had always wanted to gild Ormond.

"We're on our way out," Bill replied calmly, paddling past them.

"You can't go out, Bill. We've told everyone that we were going to find you and see if you would suit for spring about shooting Grand River standing up. In your canoe, like you was calculating on doing, still held. It's here says you can't. He says no one but an Injun can."

Bill was amazed that all this moved him not a whit. He paddled on round the bend, the men in the other canoe shouting and jeering after him. After he had gotten his pay and said good-by to Mr. Ormond for another year he screwed up his courage and went over to Minnie's. He opened the kitchen door. There she sat at the table, her head buried in her arms, a pan of potatoes in front of her. When she saw him she threw herself into his arms. "Oh, Bill, darling, they said they were going to dare you to shoot Grand River and I thought I'd never see you again to tell you how sorry I was for being so mean."

"There, there, Minnie. Don't you take on so. There isn't a mite of evil for you to be worrying like this. I'm a married man with a family to look after. I can't afford to take the risks I did when I was an old bachel."

Minnie reached across him and wiped her eyes on the snowy roller towel. Then she said lightly, "You go down cellar and get me three more potatoes. I guess you must be hungry."

Write Songs That Live

Stephen Collins Foster was an American song writer who was born at Pittsburgh, Pa., July 13, 1826. He was educated at Athens academy and Jefferson college, Pa. He composed the music and wrote the words of over 125 popular songs and melodies, among which are "The Old Folks at Home," "Nellie Gray," "Swanee River," "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and "Old Dog Tray."

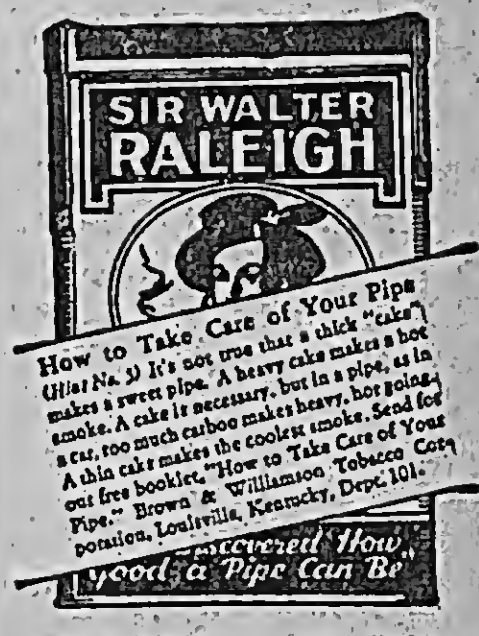

"In plain blunt words, Bill, your pipe smells like a 'Hot-Box'!"

ONLY an old and trusted friend would venture to speak so frankly.

A new pipe, or an old one carefully broken in with Sir Walter Raleigh's favorite smoking mixture, changes everything. And why shouldn't it? Sir Walter is milder and more fragrant. And it has the body and flavor found only in the finest of Burley, skillfully seasoned and blended. What more could we offer any pipe smoker? What more could he ask?

De Rivera's Hoodoo
The late Primo de Rivera had to lose. Any Spanish gypsy could have told him so right off. His name was composed of 13 letters, the kingdom he set out to save was that of Alfonso Thirteenth and he began his task on a thirteenth-day of September. Therefore Primo's fall before his recent death came when he had been 70 months at the helm—7 plus 0 plus 13; or, if you will, after 6 years, 4 months and 13 days. Or, again, after 2326 days—2 plus 3 plus 2 plus 6 plus 13. Of the year 1930—2 plus 0 plus 3 plus 0 plus 13.

Primo appointed 13 ministers. Put it as you will, Primo was doomed. His day would come according to his horoscope, said the superstitious Andalusians, Primo's countrymen, who cross their fingers hastily at the sight of a one-eyed man or a lizard and invoke Saint Maria to protect them.

"Now"
With the coming of spring in North Salem each of the first grade girls was telling the teacher about their new clothes.

Mary, a new resident in the town, was not to be outdone and this is what she told:

"My mother said I already have enough clothes, and anyway, mother said they would be new to the people here."

TIED WHEN SHE GOT UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I used to be as tired when I got up in the morning as I was when I went to bed. I had fainting spells and palpitation. Of course it was my age. I read a Lydia E. Pinkham's book and started taking the Vegetable Compound three times a day. I am now a well woman. Three of my neighbors know what it did for me so they are taking it too. I will write to any woman if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her as it did me. I feel like a young woman now and I thank you."

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Unsolved Riddles That Still Puzzle Authorities Here and Abroad

The Wandering Jew

THE "Wandering Jew," so far as the personage himself is concerned, but there is a deep and as yet unsolved mystery about the origin of this legend, dealing, according to the Jewish encyclopedia, with a shoemaker who, taunting Jesus on the road to Golgotha, was told by Him to "Go on forever till I return"—or, according to the more popular version, "Tarry thou till I come."

No one seems to know just how this story started. So far as can be learned, the legend first appeared in a pamphlet of four leaves printed at Leyden in 1602 by Christoff Crutizer, but no printer of that name has ever been located and the real place and printer cannot now be ascertained. The legend spread quickly throughout Germany, no less than six different editions of the pamphlet appearing during the year 1602 and forty were extant in Germany before the end of the eighteenth century, while the story made its way into England in 1625, and to other European countries about the same time, eventually forming the basis of a number of novels and other imaginative works based upon the same idea.

According to Behmer, one of the recognized authorities upon subjects of this kind, the legend is founded on the words given in Matthew 10:23, which are quoted in the earliest German pamphlets of 1602. Another version of the legend declares that the attendant Malchus, whose ear was cut off by Peter in the garden of Gethsemane, was condemned to wander over the face of the earth until the second coming of Christ.

The action of Malchus is associated by several biblical commentators with the scolding at Jesus and an actual predecessor of the wandering Jew is recorded in the "Flores Illustrum," by Roger Wendover, in 1228. Here it is stated that an Armenian bishop, then visiting in England, was asked by the monks of St. Albans about the celebrated Joseph of Arimathea, who had spoken to Jesus and who was popularly supposed still to be alive. The archbishop declared that he had himself seen him in Armenia and that his name was Cartaphilus.

Monseigneur D. Conway attempts to connect the legend with those of other "immortals"—King Arthur, Frederick Barbarossa, Don Sebastian of Portugal, Thomas the Rhymer and even Alip Van Winkle, claiming that all are founded on the same belief in the immortality of certain prominent personages, some of whom are notable for their praiseworthy exploits and others for crimes which they must expiate by centuries of bodily suffering.

Numbers of persons have presented themselves as the "Wandering Jew" and have gathered varying numbers of believers in their statements during the past three centuries—the most notable of these being Count Castiglione, the Italian impostor who stopped at nothing in order to attain his ends. In 1542 a man appeared in Hamburg, Germany, who declared that he had been present during the passion of Christ and that since that time he had wandered through many countries and over many lands, as a penance for his voluntary participation in the dragging of Jesus before Pilate.

Another man, representing himself to be the same character, appeared in the Netherlands in 1575, arriving at Strassburg a few years later, and, presenting himself before the magistrates, informed them that he had visited their city two centuries before, which is said to be proved to be true by "reference to the registers of the town, wherein the stranger pointed out an entry about himself and also called attention to names which he mentioned before they were shown to him."

The "Wandering Jew" was next heard of in the West Indies and, in 1604, he made his appearance in France, where he caused a considerable sensation. On April 22, 1774, the Wanderer, or an individual who impersonated him, appeared in Brussels under the name of Isaac Laquedem and only a few years ago another claimant to the title made himself known in central Germany, but not one of these surrounded himself with the atmosphere and apparent sincerity of Castiglione, a confessed impostor, who had so grossly deceived in history and languages as to be able to speak with apparent authority about every event of importance which had taken place since the beginning of the Christian era.

Charms of Malaga

Turkeys Driven to Market Through the Streets of Malaga.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Spain is once again in the world's news because of its change of dictators; but it is chiefly the Spain of Madrid and the well beaten path between the easily accessible cities, that most tourists travel. Most travelers have their first experience with the Spanish carabineiro either at the customs house of Irun, south of Biarritz, or at Port Bou, on the Mediterranean side. Then they hasten to San Sebastian, on one end of the Pyrenees, or to Barcelona, on the other, and after a brief stay, proceed to Madrid. Later, if there is time, to Toledo, and southward to Seville and Granada.

Thus merely the high spots are touched, while the unlimited beauty and interest of Spain lying along the bypaths remain scarcely known—and are still waiting to delight the venturesome traveler.

In seeking little-known Spain one of the best places to start the quest is on the Spanish Riviera, along the Mediterranean coast from Gibraltar to Almeria. The center of this district is the seaport of Malaga, a city of 150,000 inhabitants, surrounded by a semicircle of mountains which forms a natural rampart against the cold from the north and gives to this delightful spot a mildness of winter climate unequalled in all Europe.

As a general description of Malaga today, one need employ only three words: clean, modern, charming. Polite traffic officers—perhaps one should say "hobbies," because they are dressed in neat uniforms of British pattern—direct the stream of automobiles just as they do in London. There are broad avenues, lovely villas, and well-kept parks, in which an endless variety of bright flowers is always in bloom.

Indeed, this Andalusian city, nestling on the blue Mediterranean, has ambition and is exerting effort toward its accomplishment—to attract the tourists, or at least some of them, who have grown tired of returning year after year to the French Riviera.

In the Market Place.

One center of interest is the market place, a large covered building built around a picturesque Moorish arch which serves as its entrance. There are stalls of stalls devoted to meat, fish, vegetables, and fruit; but the market has overflowed its banks and now extends out into the adjoining streets, where in open air there are rows of fruit and vegetable stalls in charge of peasant men and women.

Apart from the fruit stalls is a stand selling earthen water jugs, of various sizes, arranged along the sidewalk. These are open at the neck, but have a tiny spout in the side. The peasants drink by holding the jug well above their heads and letting the tiny stream of water fall into their open mouths. A novice at this method has considerable difficulty not only with the aim, but also with swallowing against the steady stream of liquid.

The crescent of mountains which surrounds Malaga is about 60 miles from point to point and is formed of five ranges. They still bear their quaint Moorish names: Sierra de Mijas, Sierra de Abdalagis, Sierra de Aghama, Sierra de Tejeda, and the Sierra de Almijara which drops suddenly into the sea near Almuñecar.

The old word "sierra" means, in Spanish, a "saw," and it is vividly descriptive of these irregular, saw-tooth mountain lines along the sky. Each range is in itself cut and scarred into jagged peaks and precipitous chasms, the tops being of barren and forbidding rock. Then, lower down, is a covering of palmotto grass, thickly interspersed with aromatic herbs—thyme, rosemary, and lavender—and on the lower slopes, in symmetrical rows, like soldiers, thousands upon thousands of silver-green olive trees.

Here and there, on steeper slopes, the olives give place to almonds, and in January their pink and white blossoms, which appear before any of the green leaves, make a little picture of fairyland. The valleys are all yellow and greens—orange trees, lemon trees, grapevines, and sugar canes.

Everything is "Paintable."

From almost any viewpoint in the valley, not one, but three or four, rugged mountain lines may be seen, one piled up back of the other. The last line, in the far distance, is in the most delicate of blues and purples; and yet, because of the brilliant atmosphere, it stands out clearly against the deep, cloudless sky. The tops of the nearer ranges take on deeper hues of blue and purple of startling beauty, and the foreground has its splashes of brilliant yellow, green, and orange in the sunshine.

As it still net satisfied with this lavish rainbow of bright colors, Nature has painted the cultivated soil a deep, rich Venetian red; so that even the ground work in this Andalusian land takes on a beauty and interest all its own.

Artists who see this lovely country for the first time exclaim that everything is "paintable"—every tree, every building, every mountain top.

The same is true of many of the lesser-known provinces of Spain, though each has its own strong provincial individuality, not only of landscape, but also in facial types and coloring, quaint Old World costumes, and even in the different trapplages with which horses, mules, donkeys, and the huge bullocks are decked out.

Malaga has a daily paper, La Union Mercantil, of which in all justice it may be exceedingly proud. A large "double-deck" press of French make turns out its 12 to 10 pages every day. In the composing room four linotypes click busily all night long. Modestly in the extreme is the keynote of its production; yet in every issue there is a quarter column headed "On This Same Date." Thereafter appear items that have happened in the province on the date of issue, but in previous years. Generally, there are six or eight years picked at random by the well-informed chronologist, but often these go back before the discovery of America and refer to family names still existing in the city!

One reads in quite a matter-of-fact way:

December 9, 1408.—King Henry IV conferred the title of "Very Noble" upon the city of Antequera, Province of Malaga, showing proof of his affection and consideration for the heroic services rendered by its inhabitants.

December, 1518.—After more than a whole year of drought, it rained to-day in Antequera, but it was only a little shower, so the hunger and difficulties still continue.

And these little pictures themselves, sometimes gay, but more often grave, bring the distant centuries, with their odd customs and strange superstitions, very near to us. The narrow streets in Malaga's center which one passes every day are mentioned time and again.

Where Phoenicians Lived.

In the very center of the city is the Gibraltar, a miniature mountain, which rises straight out of Malaga's principal streets to a height of 500 feet. Halfway up the approach is the Alcazaba, which was the site of the original Phoenician settlement. It passed through the hands of Romans, Visigoths, and Moors, the latter capturing it in the year 711. They made this vantage spot half palace and half citadel, and it was not until August 18, 1487, that the Spanish standard was flown over its battlements. The Alcazaba was one of the very last of the Moorish strongholds on European soil.

Today there are a few tortuous streets, steep and narrow, leading between old houses, many in ruins, and a group of gypsy huts. At one or two places the streets pass through archways with the houses built over them.

Formerly this part of Malaga, which is the most picturesque and interesting, was so dirty and the gypsies so menacing in their demands for "One penny, please," that tourists were advised to leave it out of their itinerary. Now it has been cleaned up to some extent and the inhabitants are less importunate.

In Malaga, as elsewhere in Spain, one sees many apprentice boys of twelve to fourteen years. Every plumber, carpenter, and electrician has a small boy to carry his tools and help with the job.

In many cases taxi drivers have a boy to do the cranking and other onerous tasks. The half-dressed boy accompanies him to the house, carrying a little bag, and sits on the steps while Madame is being marveled. In fact, even for the ordinary civilian, to carry a small parcel of any sort is not quite the proper thing. A boy should tag along behind, bearing the burden, however small.

Moslem Faith Kept by Tatars in Lithuania

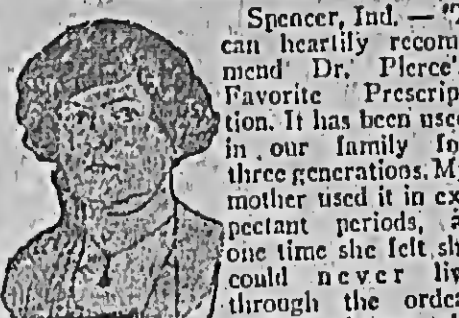

More than 500 years ago when Vytautas the Great was ruling over the grand principality of Lithuania, then at the height of its power and prosperity, he brought back as prisoners from one of his campaigns in the southeast several hundred Tatars. They remained in Lithuania, intermarried with the native women, but did not give up their Moslem faith and customs.

United with the remnants of the Tatar troops lent by the grand khan to the Lithuanian grand duke, most of whom fell in the wars with the Teutonic knights, these faithful followers of Mahomet planted the banner of the crescent in these northern regions and their descendants have kept it flying right down to today.

In connection with the solemn celebration this year in all Lithuania of the 500th anniversary of the death of Vytautas the Great, the League of Lithuanian Tatars recently held a meeting in Kovno (Kaunas) and decided to build a central mosque in the capital city.

No "nobody" thinks he is one.

"Used in Our Family For Three Generations"

Spencer, Ind.—"I can heartily recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been used in our family for three generations. My mother used it in expectant periods, at one time she felt she could never live through the ordeal.

Mrs. Etta Miller again so began taking the 'Prescription'; used it right up to the last. Her family physician asked why she was so much better this time than ever before. She told him, and he said, 'It is a good medicine.'

"I have used the 'Prescription' and it keeps me from being so nervous. 'My two daughters also have used it with very best results.'—Mrs. Etta Miller, Route 1, Box 98, All dealers.

The Old and the New

Mother (to extravagant daughter).—My grandmother was very frugal. She saved and kept her money in old wool socks.

Daughter.—Yes, ma. And I put mine in silk hose. There really isn't so much difference, is there?

Doctor's PRESCRIPTION when system is sluggish; costs nothing to try

When your bowels need help, the mildest thing that will do the work is always the sensible choice. Take a laxative that a family doctor has used for all sorts of cases of constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is so pleasant to the taste, so gentle in its action, it is given children of tender age and yet it is just as thorough and effective as stronger preparations. Pure senna, and harmless laxative herbs, ingredients that soon start a gentle muscular action. Avoid a coated tongue, bad breath, bilious headaches, etc. Every drug store has Dr. Caldwell's famous prescription in big bottles. Or just write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle.

Easter's Meaning

Easter was meaning very little else to little Junior except Easter rabbits and colored Easter eggs.

"Now, why do we celebrate Easter?" the Sunday school teacher asked the class of tots.

"I don't know but it might be all the little baby chicks' birthday," was an unexpected reply from Junior.

Giant Drug Store

The largest drug store in the world is probably the one in Geneva, Switzerland, which employs more than 400 people, has 700,000 customers from all parts of Europe and does an annual business of more than $1,000,000.

Even the self-made man is seldom wholly satisfied with his job.

If Baby has COLIC

A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation, Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

Happy Woman Tells How She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Monticello wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks, and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system. At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed, get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

Free from pimples!

What a relief it is to know that your skin can be free of pimples. Anoint it gently with CUTICURA OINTMENT, then wash off in a few minutes with CUTICURA SOAP and warm water. A very simple but satisfying treatment of pimples!

The CUTICURA Treatment has been used for years in thousands of homes throughout the world.

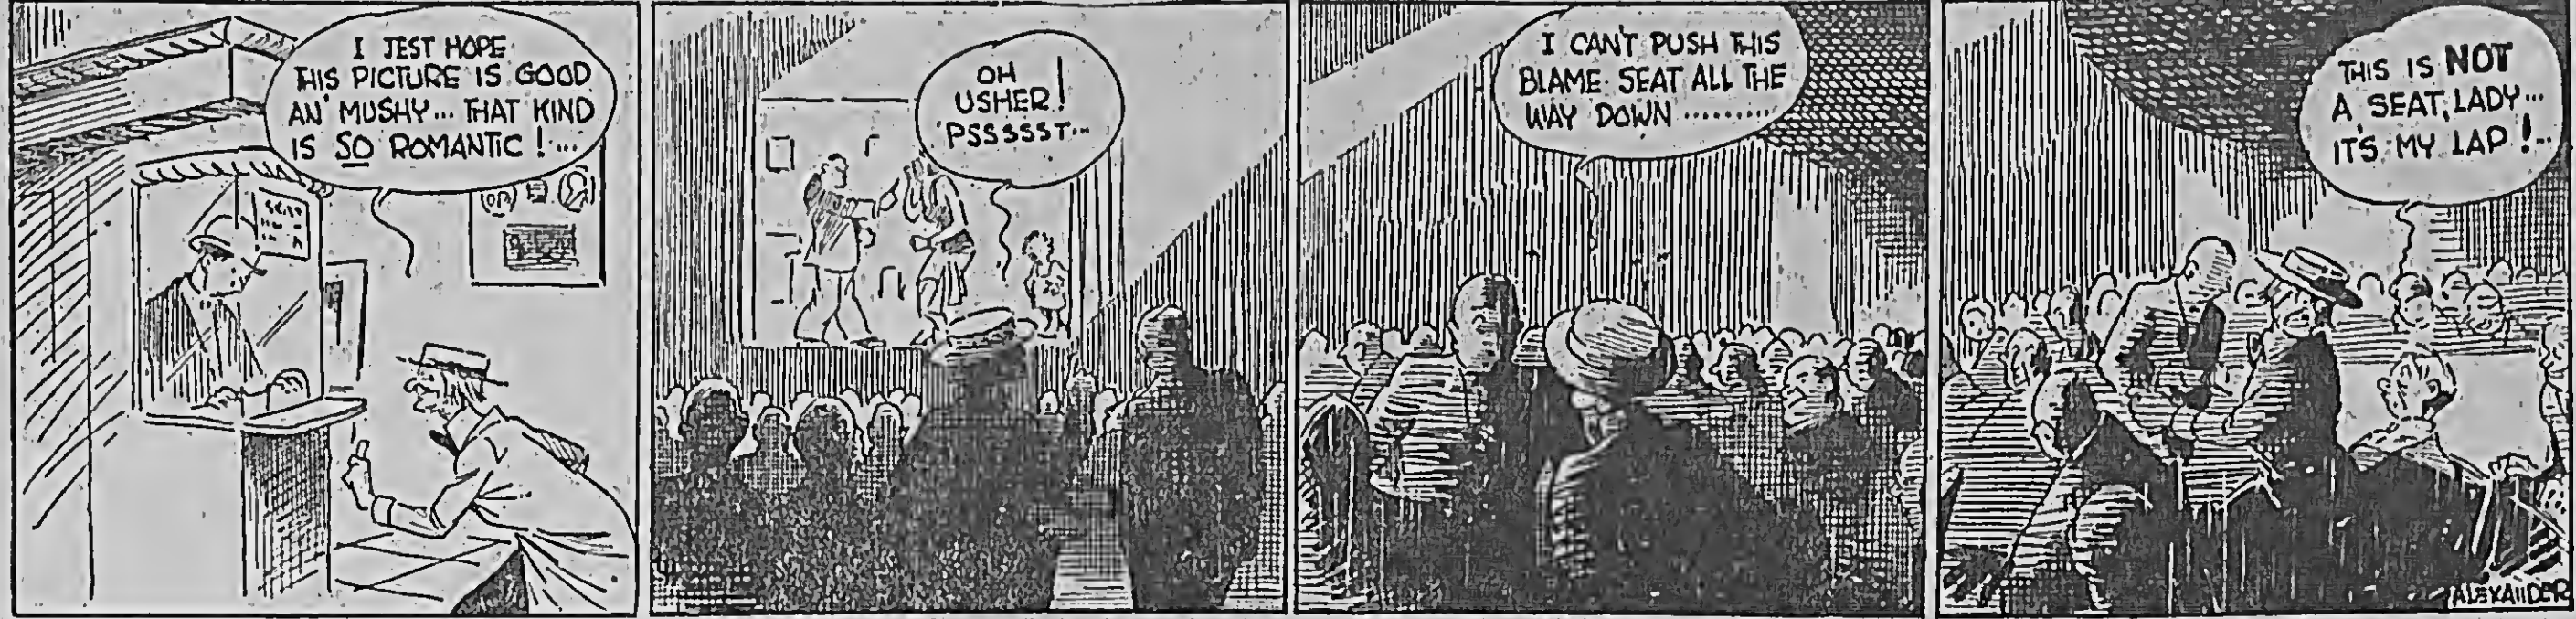

Soap 25c, Ointment 25c, and 50c. Telcum 25c. Proprietors: Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Lowell, Mass.
